TEACHING EXPERIENCE

Instructor of English as a Second Language

The Intensive English Program at WVU, Fall 2010 – Present (Full-time instructor)

The Intensive English Program at WVU, Spring 2010 – Summer 2010 (Part-time lecturer)

The Intensive English Program at WVU, Fall 2007 – Fall 2009 (Graduate Teaching Assistant)

Courses taught:

- Low-intermediate Reading – Help students improve their reading speed and reading comprehension of short texts, such as articles excerpts and Penguin Readers.
- High-intermediate Reading – Help students improve their reading speed and reading comprehension of longer academic texts. Also, engage students in pleasure reading (novels).
- Advanced Reading – Help students improve their reading speed and reading comprehension at the academic level in order to get them prepared for the demands of university work.

- Low-intermediate Grammar – Assist students in developing their knowledge of verb tenses as well as their knowledge of other grammar structures at the intermediate level.
- High-intermediate Grammar – Assist students in developing their knowledge of grammar structures at the high-intermediate level, which will help them communicate better in social and academic situations.
- Advanced Grammar – Assist students in mastering grammatical uses and forms so that they can comprehend their meanings and communicate effectively in an English-speaking environment.
- Beginner Writing – Help students improve their writing skills at the sentence level before moving on to short paragraphs.
- Elementary Writing – Help students with the initial process of writing paragraphs that express clear ideas through organized sentences and proper punctuation.
- Low-intermediate Writing – Help students with the initial process of writing for research purposes by providing them with various writing structures and organizational methods.
- Elementary Communication Skills – Assist students in participating in short conversations successfully by helping them grasp the main idea of short talks and speak with pronunciation that is understandable to native speakers.
- Low-intermediate Communication Skills – Work with students on improving their listening and speaking skills so that they can handle everyday social and academic situations successfully.
- High-intermediate Communication Skills – Help students improve listening and speaking skills necessary for academic interactions and address problem areas in pronunciation.
- Beginner Vocabulary – provide students with everyday vocabulary that will help them function in academic and social interactions.
- High-intermediate Vocabulary – Provide students with strategies for figuring out the meanings of unfamiliar words.
- Advanced Vocabulary – Help students understand word families and nuances of meaning as well as help them use collocations appropriately.
- High-intermediate and Advanced TOEFL Preparation– Provide students with useful test-taking strategies and familiarize them with the format of the exam. Also, work with students on relevant grammar structures.
- Intermediate Pronunciation – Help students recognize and produce specific sounds as well as discriminate between similar sounds so that they can communicate more effectively with native speakers.

Other responsibilities:

- Organize the ITP Paper-based TOEFL (in the IEP and in China) by scheduling it, signing up students, managing the eCommerce store, ordering the tests, assigning and training teachers to proctor and grade them, administering and proctoring the test, and supervising the grading process. (Temporarily suspended)
- Organize and execute the IEP TOEFL Clinic before each ITP TOEFL test administration. (Temporarily suspended)
- Systematically collect and analyze data in order to review our core curriculum – Grammar, Reading, Writing, Vocabulary, and Communication Skills – our Integrated Skills curriculum, assessment guidelines, and rubrics since I’m the chair of the Curriculum and Assessment committees.
- Develop the curricula for the Integrated Skills courses, such as Professional English, American Culture, World Cultures, Pronunciation, Study Skills, Life Skills, University Skills, English for STEM, English through Technology, and Community Engagement.
- Conduct TOEFL waiver interviews with graduate applicants after assessing their writing samples.
- Assist in the achievement of reporting requirements for the CEA accreditation by revising our curriculum, implementing assessment guidelines and standardized rubrics, participating in meetings, collecting data, formulating responses for the report submission, and so on.
- Assist with new students’ placement and orientation.
- Grade the SPEAK test. (discontinued Spring 2020)
- Attend and/or assist in the execution of school events, such as the Halloween party, the Conversation Breakfast, the Thanksgiving Luncheon, and the students’ graduation ceremony.

Instructor of English as a Foreign Language and Portuguese as a Second Language

Helen's Centro de Idiomas (Gravataí, RS – Brazil), September 2001 – July 2007

- I taught integrated skills classes (Listening, Speaking, Reading, Writing) to beginner, intermediate, and advanced levels.
- I had students from various age groups, from 10-year-old children to 65-year-old adults.
- I worked with a wide range of textbooks and materials.
- I developed several supplementary listening/speaking activities and materials according to our students' need for extra practice in such language skills.
- I administered, proctored, and graded placement tests.
- I assisted during student orientations.
- I assisted in the organization and execution of school events, such as the Halloween party.
- Also, I was in charge of most school trips. I scheduled the trips, arranged transportation, prepared pre-/post-trip lessons, signed up students, contacted parents, etc.

Instructor of English as a Foreign Language

SENAI Ney Damasceno Ferreira (Gravataí, RS – Brazil), August 2006 – July 2007

- I taught integrated skills classes (Listening, Speaking, Reading, Writing) to beginner students.
- I had students from various age groups, but mostly young adults from underprivileged neighborhoods with very limited English skills.
- Due to limited resources in terms of textbooks and other materials, a co-worker and I developed most of the teaching materials according to our students' needs. Actually, this was a pilot program with no defined curriculum or assessment guidelines. My colleague and I developed the whole curriculum for this special program ourselves.

Instructor of English as a Foreign Language

Colégio Cenecista Nossa Senhora dos Anjos (Gravataí, RS – Brazil), August 2004 – March 2006

- I taught integrated skills classes (Listening, Speaking, Reading, Writing) to fifth, sixth, and seventh graders in a private school.
- I generated supplementary Reading and Vocabulary materials according to students' needs.
- I assisted in the organization and execution of extracurricular activities, such as school trips and special projects. An example of a special project is the baseball championship among seventh graders. I worked with other teachers and a group of American missionary volunteers in the development of that event.
